ARMY RECRUITING TO STOP AT ONCE

Washington, D. C.—Complete cessation of army recruiting was ordered this week by Secretary Baker in accordance with the direction of Congress as embodied in a joint resolution passed over President Wilson's veto.

The war secretary acted to stop all recruiting shortly after congress had completed the adoption of the resolution which directs cessation of all recruiting until the army is reduced to 175,000 men. He did not wait for official notification of the action, completed through a vote in the senate, and no recruits will be accepted except those who have served one or more enlistment periods.

Army officers have estimated that it will require nine months, or until November 1, to reduce the army from the more than 213,000 enlisted men strength to the 175,000 figure.

The army appropriation bill, up for passage in the house, however, provides maintenance for only 150,000 men after July 1 and should it be enacted in that form the reduction process will have to be carried beyond November 1. Recruiting has averaged about 1,000 men a day.

The senate vote 67 to 1 to override the president's veto of the reduction resolution, Senator Kirby, democrat, Arkansas, alone being recorded as sustaining the president.

WHAT TO EAT.

Each year the value of apples as a health fruit is being more appreciated. Whatever aids in promoting health, of course aids beauty as well and the habit of eating an apple or more a day is one which it is wise to cultivate. There are few who are not able to digest a raw apple; for those unfortunate who are, a baked apple may take its place.

A cooked apple eaten at breakfast time is a natural cathartic, so with two apples a day, one at breakfast and the other at night, one will be healthy and wise, if not wealthy. It has been said by those who have made a study of such things, that the teeth are preserved by the eating of an apple at night, followed by a good brushing, which protects them from the action of bacteria during the night. The lemon is another good fruit to have with you at all times; rub internally or externally it is a good partner to the apple. If the skin is sallow, take the juice of half a lemon in a glassful of hot water. If the face needs a bleach, the lemon is one that can be used without fear.

Apple Glace With Marshmallows.—Make a syrup of a cupful each of boiling water and granulated sugar; to this cook six or seven apples, cored and pared. Turn the apples over to keep them whole, and test them with a skewer to see when they are tender. Remove them to a baking dish as they are done; taste with the syrup and dredge generously with sugar. Set into a hot oven to glaze them. Remove to a serving dish with a spatula; pour the syrup from both dishes around them, and when cooled a little press one or two marshmallows into the center of each. Serve with or without cream.

Candle Light Salad.—Arrange one half of a banana in the center of a ring of pineapple placed on a white leaf of lettuce. Top the tapering point with a red cherry and serve with mayonnaise dressing and nuts.

MINIATURE STORMS IN CITY

Movements of Air Currents, Developed by High Buildings, Make Study That Is Interesting.

You may learn many interesting things about air currents and the way storms develop by watching the movement of pieces of paper, or perhaps your hat, as it is whirled about the street.

A variety of miniature windstorms are developed by the high buildings of our cities or the forms of streets, which will repay careful study. On a hot day even, when the air is perfectly quiet, the atmosphere, as it becomes heated tends to rise against the sides of rocks or buildings, and if it travels far enough will develop in a strong wind, which descends on the opposite side and plays queer pranks. A small whirlwind is often produced by the action of wind against a corner formed by several buildings. As the wind travels down a street, especially a narrow one, it rapidly increases in velocity. A little will spill into the side streets, but the main stream will flow on, gathering momentum.

Watch the wind strike against the side of a high building and notice how it mushrooms out on all sides, splitting into many air currents and trace these till they come to rest, but be sure to hold tightly to your hat in the meantime.—Boys' Life.

JURORS AND TRIAL LAWYERS

Men Who Render the Verdict Said to Have a Distinct Influence Over the Counsel.

Juries differ widely. Charles Russell used to say, for instance, that there was all the difference in the world between English and Irish juries, remarks the Manchester (Eng.) Guardian. Irish juries enjoyed the fun and the drama of a trial; they entered into it all and appreciated the cut and thrust; whereas English juries were concerned more with wondering how soon they would be released.

But there is a characteristic common to all juries. They have quite as much influence, though in a different way, over counsel as counsel have over them. One of the greatest advocates, Scarlett, Lord Abinger, declared that his success was due chiefly to the rule he made of selecting one particular jurymen, not necessarily the foreman, and addressing the argument as if to him personally. He would then work away till he felt that he had convinced this man and could rely on him when the verdict was being considered.

African Seeds.

Sixteen hundred of seeds and plants of African fruits, vegetables, grains and flowers not common to this country have been sent to the United States Department of Agriculture for a test as to their adaptability to American soil as a result of a trip made by Dr. H. L. Shantz, an agricultural explorer. Dr. Shantz accompanied the Smithsonian-African expedition which made a tour of interior Africa from Cape Town to Cairo, penetrating the Orange Free State, the Transvaal, the Kongo, East Africa, the Sudan and Egypt, with side trips to other parts of the continent and adjacent islands.

Among the many new crops, one that is viewed with interest is a gourd two feet long, which contains two gallons of succulent seed about the size of an almond. The meat of these seeds resembles that of the butternut in taste, and, in addition to their possibilities as a nut substitute, they are rich in oil. Many new sulfur corns and sorghums, as well as grasses, suitable for the semiarid West, as well as the pine lands of the South, some excellent new mangoes, a number of oil plants, some dry-land rice, and a large number of grains and grasses are among the specimens. The department has found that several crops which flourish in central Africa are adapted to the southern parts of the southwestern United States. The American-Egyptian cotton and Sudan grass are among the noteworthy acquisitions as a result of previous expeditions.

Giant Eels.

It is said there are eels so one can land. Some years ago a giant eel was caught in shallow water off the shores of England. It measured 8 feet 8 inches in length and weighed 148 pounds. Eelers half that size have been known to bite a man's hand in two and to have driven their teeth through the middle of an ear.

In 1913 Kakamansu, the champion swimmer of Honolulu, was attacked by a giant eel, which dragged him under water, and held him there for nearly two minutes. He escaped at last, but at the cost of a finger from his right hand.

Eels attain an immense size in the rivers of New Zealand and have been known to attack bathers. In fact, many cases of drowning have been proven to be where eels have dragged the bathers beneath the surface of the water.

World's Jute Comes From India.

Of sub-tropical products India gives us the whole of the world's jute and a large proportion of its hemp. Some 500,000 tons of jute are exported annually. Thirty years ago Indian jute was the world's standard blue, but the vegetable dyes of India have been destroyed by the German aniline dyes and the principal victim has been indigo.

The mucilage on the back of a postage stamp is made from the syrup of sweet potatoes. The liquid is forced through pipes leading to a series of machines consisting of rollers between which sheets of stamps are fed one at a time. The liquid falls in a spray upon the rollers. The sheet with its wet coating of mucilage passes from the rollers into a flue filled with hot air. When it comes out at the other end of the flue the mucilage is dry.

Catarrhal Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure catarrhal deafness, and that is by a constitutional remedy. Catarrhal Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Many cases of deafness are caused by catarrh, which is an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Medicine acts thru the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Catarrhal Deafness that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Medicine. Circulars free. All Druggists, etc. F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.
